PERU

Peru is the 3rd largest country in South America. Located on the shores of the Pacific Ocean between Ecuador and Chile, the country stretches across the tropics of the Southern Hemisphere into the rainforests of the Amazon where it shares a border with Colombia, Brazil and Bolivia. With the Andes splitting the land in half from North to South, Peru benefits from an exceptionally varied climate and an astounding variety of landscapes that have fostered an abundant biodiversity and many great human civilizations. Famous for being the birthplace of the Inca Empire and a major player in the Spanish colonization of the continent, it has gained the favors of travelers worldwide for its amazing cuisine, its fascinating history and its incredibly rich wilderness.

LIMA - THE CITY OF KINGS

Peru's capital Lima is one of the twenty-four regions that, together with the Constitutional Province of Callao, form the Republic of Peru. It is the most populated region and the largest city in Peru with more than 10 million inhabitants. The diversity of Limenians reflect the country's population making it a very cosmopolitan urban center. The city of Lima was founded by Spanish conquistador Francisco Pizarro on January 18, 1535, as the 'Ciudad de los Reyes' (the City of Kings). Nowadays, the city's vibrant food and cultural scenes make it a solid match to any other metropolis.

Welcome to Lima

THE ENIGMATIC SOUTH

The South Pacific coast of Peru is an intriguing place where the desert and the ocean meet. A few hours south of Lima, lies the Paracas National Reserve, a wild place where millions of birds and an abundant marine life crowd the rocky islands out at sea and where pristine sand beaches extend for miles only interrupted by impressive sand dunes. This wild beauty is completed by the incredible oasis of Huacachina and the mysterious Nazca lines.
